NO PROSECUTION OF SON'S SLAYER

Will be Instituted by Harry Mix, He Says.

Promises Mother of Accused Boy That Law Shall Take Its Course in the Case.

CICERO ANDERSON, CHARGED.

John Mix Dies.
Makes Dying statement at hospital.
Cicero Anderson held at inquest.

Mix's father will not prosecute son's slayer.

No effort will be made by the family of John Mix to prosecute Cicero
Anderson, who shot and killed Mix
Monday night at Ninth street and Kentucky avenue.

This was stated today by Harry Mix, father of the young man, who was at the police station this morning. Mr. Mix and Mrs. Dabney Anderson, mother of Cicero Anderson, held a conference this morning at the city hall and Mr. Mix promised her he would not take any part in the prosecution of her son. He said she is a poor widow and he does not feel justified in making her life any harder for her. The offensive notoriety of the affair, especially under the rather doubtful circumstances of the case, also had its weight in discouraging
the active interest of the family.

The decision of Mr. Mix will not atter the plans of the commonwealth, and County Prosecutor Barkley said he would proceed with the case just the same.

John Mix died last night
about 9 o'clock, less than 24 hours after the shooting. He was rational to the last and just before dying made a statement to Alben Barkley, county attorney, in the presence of witnesses, telling how the shooting occurred. Mix was strong of constitution and up until an hour before death stoutly refused to believe that he was going to die.

Mix declared on his death bed that the shooting was unprovoked and that he did not expect the shot and knew nothing of the intentions of Anderson when the pistol was fired.

"We did have a little trouble," he stated in beginning his version of the affair, "in the Sue Eggleston result. I met McCord and Anderson there. The trouble which occurred in this resort was trivial and, I presumed, ended when I left the place. After going to Blackhall's saloon on Ninth street, a short distance south of Kentucky avenue, I went to Graham's saloon. McCord and Anderson followed my party to the former saloon and also to the latter, but I did not know of their presence at the Graham saloon until I was shot or just a few moments preceding the shooting.

"I had stepped out into the backyard and when I turned to go into the house again noticed McCord and Anderson standing together about 15 feet away. Anderson pulled his gun and fired. I did not have any suspicions that he meant me harm. After the shooting, Anderson ran, I think."

Mix denied that he was fighting
McCord when Anderson shot him, stating that he had no trouble with either of the two young men in the rear of Graham's saloon.

Mix talked slowly and was rapidly sinking. He breathed his last in a few minutes after his statement was finished. The body was taken in charge by the undertakers and this morning was removed to his home, 901 South Fourth street.

John Mix was 26 years old and was born in Paducah. He was the son of Mr. Harry Mix, a well known marine engineer, and was a cabinet maker by trade. The young man contracted the drink habit in his early youth and this seemed to have been his only failing. He had figured in many escapades. He is survived by his parents, two sisters and two brothers.

The funeral will be held at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning at St.
Francis de Sales church. The burial will be at Oak Grove cemetery.

Coroner's Inquest.
Coroner Frank Eaker held the inquest this morning in the parlors of the Guy Nance undertaking establishment on South Third street into the death of John Mix. The verdict was:

"We, the jury, being regularly

PILE OF CHIPS

Was Being Raked in By the Gambler
When He Fell Dead.

Charleston, S. C., July 25.—William Palmer died suddenly this morning in a gambling house just as he had won a stack of chips in a game of "set-back." A party was in the game. The hands were dealt and played, and as the cards were counted Palmer remarked: "High, low, jack and the game. As he was drawing the chips toward him he fell upon the table.

WILL CONTEST

TO FOLLOW THE BURIAL OF RUSSELL SAGE.

Relatives Who Do Not Like Terms of Testament After Share in the $100,000,000.

New York, July 25.—The Herald says preparations for contesting the will of Russell Sage in the event of its provisions not being satisfactory to them, have already been made by relatives of the financier. Nephews and grandnephews and others more remote are said to be considering steps for legal proceedings.

Most of the relatives named were not on especially good terms with Mr.
Sage. He had on more than one occasion given financial aid to them, but their ideas of life did not conform to his strict business code.

By the special instruction of Mrs.
Sage, all persons who have even an inkling of the contents of the will are maintaining silence. She so thoroughly dominates the situation as to give color to the view that she will be practically in control of the estate of $100,000,000. Whatever gifts have been made to charitable purposes, it is believed, were made upon her recommendation and advice.

Among the institutions which he had helped materially in his lifetime is the Tuskegee Institute.

Filipino Laborers Wanted in Hawaii Manila, July 25.—The Philippine commission has adopted a resolution favoring the scheme of the Hawaiian Planters' association to transport Phi-lipino laborers and their families to Hawaii to work in sugar plantations.

TEAR UP TRACKS

WAR BEING MADE ON STREET RAILWAY IN CLEVELAND.

Mayor Tom Johnson Puts Five Hundred Men to Work on the Tracks
This Morning.

Cleveland, July 25.—War was begun this morning on the Cleveland electric railway company by the city when a force of 500 men began to tear up the tracks of the company on Fulton street. The men were city employees under direction of Mayor Johnson and the chief of police. They were protected by a force of police.

The trouble is the result of a street railway franchise fight the company operating certain lines under franchises which have expired. Mayor Johnson has opposed granting a franchise unless the company agrees to a three cent fare. A municipal railway company has been formed which will carry passengers for three cents.

Judge Ford issued an injunction at 11 o'clock ordering the city workmen under Mayor Johnson not to tear up the street railway tracks. "We will pay no attention to it," said Johnson.

Farmers' Institute.
The Farmers' institute will meet Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the county court-room. All farmers that are interested in this movement and members are requested to be present.

Toying With a Gun.

Washington, Ind., July 25.—Clarence Myers, 16 years old, accidentally shot and killed himself today while toying with a revolver.

FALLS WITH LAMP AND STORE BURNS

Grocery of W. T. Cooper is Destroyed at Ragland.

Flames Come in Contact With Oil on Floor and Whole Stock is Consumed.

TOTAL LOSS WILL BE $8,000.

As the result of a mis-step of the proprietor the general merchandise and grocery store of W. T. Cooper & company at Ragland, McCracken county, about thirty miles southwest of Paducah, burned and is a total loss. The loss will aggregate $8,000 with little insurance.

Mr. Cooper was carrying a lighted lamp, and stepped into a hole in the floor. The lamp fell from his hand, as he went down, and broke. The floor was covered with oil which ignited and in a few minutes the flames had spread beyond control. Before any goods could be moved the building was a mass of flames.

This was one of the two big firms
in Ragland, the other being W. H.
Covington & company. It was reported that Covington's store had burned
but this proved erroneous.

It is said that the building will be replaced at once and the firm will continue in business.

Post-Office Destroyed.

The post-office, located in the same building with the grocery store, also burned, but the stamps and money order blanks were saved. Besides the furniture these were the most valuable things in the post-office. J. H.
Miles is postmaster at Ragland.

HE'S A NEGRO

And Will Sue Because They Called Him White.

Asheville, N. C., July 25.—Henry Pearson, hotel proprietor of this place, is a negro and is proud of it.
Alleging that his character and business has been damaged to the extent of several thousand dollars because he has been listed in the Asheville city directory as a white man, Pearson, who conducts the Royal Victoria hotel,
a house run exclusively for negroes,
will file suit within the next few days against the Hill Directory company, of Richmond, Va., and the Hackney & Moale Printing company, of Asheville.
The complaint is being drawn up by Frank Carter, attorney for the negro.

KILLED BY WIFE

Was Farmer, but She Says She Only Intended to Scare Him.

Cherokee, Kan., July 25.—John Dauron, aged sixty years, a well-known farmer, was shot and killed today by his wife. Dauron and his wife have had many quarrels of late and recently they separated. Mrs. Dauron said that she was afraid to go into the house when she returned home last night and that she slept in the barn.
When she started to leave today Dauron, she said, attempted to choke her.
She said she then fired the pistol intending only to scare him.

"THEY DID ME UP"

"Cut Out the Cigarettes," the Suicide Wrote to His Brother.

Detroit, Mich., July 25.—Cigarettes caused Carl Wilson, aged 21 years, to blow out his brains with a shotgun this morning while alone in W. M.
Frusher's boarding house at 58 Eureka avenue, Wyandotte. He left this message:

"Dear Brother Glen: If you want to be old cut out the cigarettes. They did me up. CARL."

CAMPAIGN IS ON.

Democratic Congressional Committee
Soon to Open Headquarters.

Chicago, July 25.—The western division of the Democratic congressional campaign committee will open headquarters at the Palmer house, Chicago, August 1. Congressman Rainey, of Carroll, Ill., and James T.
Lloyd, of Missouri, will be in charge.

Reactionaries Jubilant.

St. Petersburg, July 25.—Reactionaries are jubilant today over the quiet attitude of the country and confidential of the final success of their plans.
They are telling the czar he should never have consented to demand reforms.

FIFTEEN SAFES CRACKED.

Rockport, Ill., July 25.— Burglars blew fifteen safes and robbed sixteen offices in the William Brown block this morning, securing $800. The alleged culprits were captured. It was the boldest robbery in the city's history.

FREIGHT HANDLERS.

Strike at Oakland and Tie Up Southern Pacific.

San Francisco, July 25.—Freight congestion has become involved in further complications by a strike of 250 freight handlers employed by the Southern Pacific in Oakland. The strike may extend to other points on road.

MUNITIONS OF WAR ARE CONTRABAND

Is Recommendation of Conference of Powers.

French Representative Warns Delegates That Bankruptcy Will Be Result.

DISARMAMENT IS CERTAIN.

London, July 25.—After a prolonged debate today the inter-parliamentary peace conference adopted this resolution: "The second Hague conference should by treaty define contraband of war as being restricted to arms, munitions of war and explosives; reassert the principle that a neutral ship carrying contraband war shall not be destroyed and affirm that even between belligerents private property should be as immune as land."

This conference concluded the sessions.

London, July 25.—At the inter-parliamentary conference Baron D' Estournelles De Constant, head of the French delegation, subsequently opened the debate on the limitation of military and naval forces. He declared that if the powers were decided among themselves how to act for their common interests, they would be forced to do so, first by bankruptcy and then by revolution.
He said that limitation of armaments had no connection with the chimera of disarmament. The arguments against disarmament were based on the augmented expenditure of the power.

The augmentations in the United States were due to the unfortunate example of Europe, but in proportion to the population, the American forces had not been increased unreasonably, and the expenditure had been augmented proportionately. The arguments proving the inaptitude of the Americans to transform themselves into a nation of soldiers. Germany, continued the baron, commits the grave fault of struggling with the United States for naval pre-eminence, and thus divides her energies both on land and sea uselessly, for the American states were united and inaccessible, while the states of Europe were divided and will always be menaced by the possibility of a coalition against them.

Congressman D. I. D. Granger of Rhode Island, was elected vice-president of the American delegation for the coming year and Congressman Richard Bartholdt of Missouri, and T. E. Burton of Ohio, were elected members of the international council.

POISON IN COFFEE.

Negro Woman Takes Revenge on Hotel Proprietor.

Lauderdale Springs, Miss., July 25.
—To avenge a grievance against L. N.
Hollinsworth, the hotel proprietor who discharged her daughter, Anna Nolan, a negro employed at the hotel, put poison in the coffee. A number of persons are seriously ill, but probably will recover. The woman was arrested and confessed.

NO INQUEST.

Thaw's Attorney Says He Will Ask for None.

New York, July 25.—Attorney Hartridge, for Harry Thaw made this statement today: "In view of the statements suggesting the appointment of an insanity commission we desire to say no insanity commission either civil or otherwise will be appointed in the Thaw case."

STREET CAR LINE FOR FIRST WARD

Residents to Petition For An Extension.

At Present Ward Is Touched Only on West and South by Branches of System.

THICKLY SETTLED COMMUNITY.

Another street car line extension is called for. This time the residents of the first ward feel the need of accommodations and the inclination to support the line. They are preparing a petition to the street railway company, setting forth the advantages to the company, by reason of increased patronage.

The first ward includes that territory north of Trimble street, which at present is touched only on two sides, by the Rowlandtown on the west, and the Trimble street line on the south.
For ten blocks north of Trimble street a thickly populated settlement extends between Twelfth street and the river, and the distance the majority of the residents must travel now to reach a car is considered unreasonable by many of them.

They point out the fact that the proposed line will reach as thickly settled community as would the Mochambersburg route, without the difficulties and expenses of the latter.
The first ward is distinctly a residence section and the majority of the inhabitants work in some distant part of the city. This would be a factor to be considered by the company in estimating the profit of such an extension.

The cars could easily be run out Sixth street from Trimble street, crossing the railroad by the freight depot and tapping the heart of the first ward. There are several available routes. The petition will be presented to Manager Bleeker in a short time.

FORGED CERTIFICATE.

Secretary of Union Pacific Thinks It
a Bungling Job.

New York, July 25.—Discovery of a forged certificate for fifty shares of common stock of the Union Pacific railroad was announced here by George W. Ely, secretary of the Stock Exchange. The certificate is numbered 9,658, and is dated September 14, 1905. It is in the name of Marvin J.
Hannah, bearing what purports to be the signatures of E. H. Harriman and Alexander Millar, without official title and the seal of the Union Pacific company. Mr. Ely said that it is not known whether or not there are any more forged certificates in circulation.
The price of Union Pacific common stock is $147.25 per share.

ENRAGED FATHER

Used a Clawhammer in Savage Attack on Youth.

Marietta, O. July 25.—Armed with a heavy clawhammer, Jeff Sharp of this city, broke open the door of his 16-year-old daughter's room late this afternoon and made a murderous attack upon Pearl Pitts, a young man who was in the room with the girl, the cruel claws of the hammer entering the flesh to the bone and then tearing their way out again. In this manner the arms and legs of Pitts were cut and torn in a manner horrible to behold.

YOUTH MUST HANG.

For the Brutal Murder of Father, Mother, Brother and Sister.

Auburn, Cal., July 25.—Adolph Weber who murdered his father, mother, brother and sister at this place two years ago in order to obtain possession of the family estate of about $60,000, was today sentenced to be hanged on September 12, next. Once before the youth was sentenced to death, but his appeal to the supreme court served to stay the execution.

THANK PRESIDENT.

Retail Grocers Are Pleased With Pure Food Law.

Chicago, July 25.—Through its executive committee, which met here yesterday, 150,000 members of the National Retail Grocers' association thanked President Roosevelt for the stand he took in regard to the pure food law recently passed by congress.

Fair tonight and slowly rising temperature Thursday. The highest temperature reached yesterday was 88 and the lowest this morning was 64.

"LONG" ON WHEAT

But Short on Money, Young Broker Committed Suicide.

Chicago, July 25.—Fred S. Bro-berg, a prominent commission broker of Monmouth, Ill., who disappeared from there last Saturday on account it is said, of a $1,000 shortage in his accounts, committed suicide by shooting himself through the head. The recent slump in grain is said to have caught him "long" on a large amount of wheat and that he was unable to meet his obligation.

MENARD WILL

IS FIRED FOR PROBATE AT THE COURT HOUSE.

Leaves Property in Trust for Grand-Children With Remainder Over.

The will of the late Augustine Menard, dated November 25, 1901, and witnessed by Colonel Q. Q. Quigley, who drew it up, was filed for probate this morning in county court.
All her estate both real and personal is placed in the hands of her son Stephen Menard in trust, especially one piece of city property on the south side of Broadway near Third street. The funeral and other expenses are to come out of the income from the estate and the remainder of the proceeds used in educating her grand-children, Louis, Charles and Marie Suzanne Menard, children of Stephen Menard. When they attain their majority the income is to be divided into one-half and two-fourths, one-half to go to her sister, Marine Menard of Nazareth, and one-fourth to each of the grand-children.
The estate is also to be divided this way and in the event of the death of the sister, her portion is to go to the son, Stephen Menard.

Shaw on Speaking Tour.

Washington, July 25.—Secretary
Shaw will leave Washington tomorrow for Chicago. Later in the week he will go to Iowa where he will deliver an address at a Chautauqua near Des Moines. He also will deliver several addresses throughout the state and will attend the state convention at Des Moines August 1.

GOOD MARKSMAN

POLICEMAN DESCRIBES CIRCLE AROUND MAN'S HEART.

Fatal Duel on Government Square in Cincinnati at Early Hour
Today.

Cincinnati, July 25.—In a revolver duel on Government square at 4 o'clock this morning Policeman Rossiter killed
M. C. Holmes, a merchant of West
Union, Ohio. Holmes fired five shots, which went wild, and the policeman fired five, three of which entered in a group around Holmes' heart, causing instant death. Holmes, who had been acting queerly since his arrival in the city, was singing on the street. When the policeman requested him to desist he pulled a revolver and began firing.

Policeman Rossiter will not be suspended or prosecuted for killing Holmes. Witnesses claim he shot in self-defense.

ROOT AND BRANCO

Elected Honorary Presidents of Pan-American Conference.

Rio de Janeiro, July 25.—At today's session of the international American conference Baron de Rio Branco, the Brazilian minister of foreign affairs, and Secretary Root were elected honorary presidents. The conference will reconvene July 26.

Car Repairers on Strike.

New Orleans, July 25.—Several hundred car repairers of the Southern Pacific company struck here today for recognition of their union.

DICTATOR'S RULE RUSSIA'S PORTION

Plan to Form Nominal Ministry Proposed.

Reactionaries Are Jubilant Because No Revolution Has Followed the Coup.

TERRORISTS BURN ESTATES.

Military despotism. Anarchists active in rural districts. Reactionaries are jubilant again.
Jewish trouble at Odessa. Czar doomed by terrorists.

St. Petersburg, July 25.—The way has been prepared for a military dictatorship by a proposition now under consideration at Peterhof to create an advisory council to assist the emperor.
Premier Stolypin, Gen. Trepoff and others are today conferring with the emperor on this subject.

On the surface the scheme is to form such a council out of the members of the council of the empire and Conservatives and Liberals like M.
Shipoff and M. Guchkoff, and also, possibly, several Constitutional Democratic leaders with the purpose of reassuring the population of the sincerity of the government's future intentions.

While nominally the council would retain the authority, the camarilla would gradually absorb its power and exercise a virtual dictatorship.

Domiciliary searches continue in all quarters of the capital, the prisons are already filling and the old blind system of attempting to conceal from the people what is happening has been adopted.

The censorship of the press has been re-established with a vigor unknown since the days of the late interior Minister Von Plehve accompanied by the wholesale confiscation of newspapers. No word of the proceedings of the members of parliament at Viborg or of the address adopted is permitted to be published.
Telegrams from the provinces telling the universal indignation aroused by the dissolution and even those from abroad outlining public opinion in a foreign country have been emasculated or suppressed.

Not a word of the speech of Premier Campbell-Bannerman before the Inter-Parliamentary Union in London yesterday has been allowed to be printed.

At two meetings last night, one near the Narva Gate, and the other in the Viborgsk district across the Neva, the Cossacks sent to disperse them refused openly to do so and fraternized with the workmen. This is practically confirmative of the revolutionists' boast that the troops will not fire again on the people.

Terrorists Pass Sentence.

St. Petersburg, July 25.—Proclamations announcing that the death sentence has been imposed on the emperor, Gen. Trepoff, M. Pobledonostzeff, who was procurator general of the Holy Synod; Gen. Orloff, the "pacifist" of the Baltic provinces, and others, have been scattered over part of Peterhof. The Terrorists are said to have succeeded in nailing copies of the sentence on the doors of Gen. Orloff's and Gen. Trepoff's quarters.

Drastic Orders Issued.

St. Petersburg, July 25.—War to the knife with the revolution and knife to the hilt, was proclaimed today by Premier Stolypin in a telegram addressed to the governor generals, governors and prefects throughout Russia and to the viceroy of Caucasus, who are ordered to strike and spare not in their efforts to preserve order and crush "the enemies of society."
Included in this category as shown today are not only revolutionists and socialists but also educated, liberal and landed classes, represented in the constitutional Democratic party whose clubs everywhere have been closed.

Officers Ordered Home.

Vienna, July 25.—Russian officers spending their leave of absence at Austrian watering places have been ordered by telegraph to return to Russia. The order points out that the threatening conditions make it necessary to place the army on war

FOX WAS TOO FOXY FOR THE INDIANS

They Could Not Connect at Proper Time.

Jacksonville Gets Away With Game By Score of Five to Two—The Summary.

LAST OF THE SERIES TODAY.

Team Standing.	W.	L.	Pct.
Vincennes	50	31	.617
Jacksonville	42	39	.519
Cairo	42	39	.519
PADUCAH	39	40	.494
Danville	37	45	.451
Mattoon	32	48	.400

Yesterday's Results.
Jacksonville, 5; Paducah, 2.
Mattoon, 5; Vincennes, 3.
Cairo, 10; Danville, 1.

Today's Schedule.
Paducah at Jacksonville.
Cairo at Danville.
Vincennes at Mattoon.

Jacksonville, Ill., July 25.—The Indians could not hit Fox, and the wily twirler "got away" with his game with ease. The three misplays made by the Indians were factors in the runs made by the locals, but no bunched hits were secured off Fox. Several times the Indians got men on bases but the big twirler managed to pull out. Paducah tried a new twirler, Asher, who made a fair showing, allowing but seven bingles. They were bunched, however.

The score: R H E
Jacksonville ..... 5 7 1
Paducah ..... 2 5 3
Batteries—Fox and Belt; Asher and Downing.

Hoosiers Are Defeated.
Mattoon, Ill., July 25.—The Hoosiers were outplayed yesterday, the locals taking the game with ease. Jorker was invincible. Farrall was hard to find, but the Hoosiers seemed to walk in and hit when needed. Vincennes used two catchers.

The score: R H E
Mattoon ..... 5 7 4
Vincennes ..... 3 7 2
Batteries—Farrall, Mattoon and McCalland; Jorker and Johnson.

Cairo Wins By Big Margin.
Danville, Ill., July 25.—The visitors won with ease yesterday. Eleven hits were secured off "Kid" Fleming and they were bunched, too. Danville had six bad misplays, which came when hitting was fast and furious, and this gave the Hash Slingers a few of the runs. Hatch was effective against the locals.

The score: R H E
Cairo ..... 10 11 3
Danville ..... 1 7 6
Batteries—Hatch and Quessier; Fleming and Ott.

Dope.
"Pat" Roughhouse McCarthy has decided as long as he has the fame he might as well have the game, and he has announced that in the future he intended to be "roughhouse" as possible. He has been mild and meek so far this season and for that reason the players of other teams have rubbed it in on him. Yesterday he proclaimed his intentions to fight for every game, even physically if necessary, and he began by ordering Manager Kolb off the Mattoon players' bench and when he refused to go started to throw him off. Later when Wilkinson got gay he was on the point of mixing up with him, when Umpire Zeigler interfered.—Mattoon Star.

Perry is playing good ball for the Indians. His finger gives him some trouble, however. He hits the ball full in the face and his grip on the bat does not seem hampered by the break.

A "wise guy" sends the following showing that Jacksonville fans also want to run the team. This has been the trouble in Paducah to a certain degree.

"Frank Belt, manager of the Jacksonville baseball team, has received the following communication from some unknown source:

"Frank Belt, Esq.: 'Can' Hage, and Livingston and sign a couple of good hitters and Jacksonville will have a winning team.

"This is the unanimous opinion of the other members of the team, and the 'fans' who are loyal to the team's best interests. They have been given a fair trial and can't make good 'Can' them."—Illinois Courier.

"Red" Perry and Bert Haas are without a doubt the two men of the league who sicken the average fan. They have a disgusting air about them.

Nursing Mothers and Malaria.
The Old Standard Grove's Tasteless Chilli Tonic drives out malaria and builds up the system. Sold by all druggists 37 cents. Price 50 cents.

that doesn't look good alongside the gentlemanly little fellows who compose the Danville team."—Danville Democrat.

Kitty League Race Close.

The Kitty league race is attracting attention and it is one of the closest of any league in existence. Vincennes is not too far ahead of Cairo to prevent the latter catching up in the course of another two weeks and the season has about nine weeks to run. Jacksonville has not been putting up the strong article of ball she started out with when her winning streak struck her, and is slowly dropping. Danville is playing with an experimental team and is not expected to cut much of a figure in the league. Mattoon has strengthened wonderfully and seems to have come out of the hoodoo somewhat. It is wagged that Mattoon will not finish last. Taking the standing it can be seen that Vincennes has won but 18 more games than Mattoon, and Mattoon is on the bottom. Vincennes stands but eight games ahead of Cairo, eight ahead of Jacksonville, eleven ahead of Paducah and thirteen ahead of Danville. It is possible that an entire change may be effected in the standing of the teams in the course of the next three weeks, and the Kitty league is being closely watched by all sportsmen.

L. A. L.'s at Mound City.

The L. A. L. team of this city, will play the Mound City, Ill., team at that city Sunday and Joe Woldridge and Bob Hayes will be the Paducah battery.

A RARE RECIPE FOR A RAREBIT

By Sawda.
Japanese Chef to J. Charles Davis.

Whitestone, L. I.
1 cup grated fresh American cheese.

1 cup of milk.
1 piece of butter size of an egg.
1-2 cup of stale bread crumbs.

1 egg.
Melt the cheese in a pan, add the milk and butter, stir until smooth.

Add bread crumbs, and lastly the beaten egg. Stir two minutes and serve on toast or cracker.—Geo. M. Cohan's Spot Light.

What She Wanted.

A young couple had just been married a couple of months, and still loved each other devotedly. He was in the backyard blacking his boots.

"Jack," she called at the top of her voice, "Jack—come here quick." He knew at once that she was in danger. He grasped a stick and rushed up two flights of stairs to the rescue. He entered the room breathlessly and found her looking out of the window.

"Look," she said. "That's the kind of a hat I want you to buy me."

A Chicago society leader tells me that it is getting to be quite fashionable in Packingtown to have dinner at supper time.

ENLISTING MANIA POSSESSES MOSELY

Arrested in Louisville For Deserting Seventh Time.

The Knott County Feudists, Who Killed Richard Hall, Are Indicted.

THE OLDEST POSTAL EMPLOYEE.

Seven Times Deserter.

Louisville, July 25.—Joseph R. Mosely, a prisoner in the Jefferson county jail, was this morning identified as the man whom the army authorities over the country designate as "The Man with the Mania for Enlisting." The discovery of the man for whom the officers of every city in the country have been on the look out for, chiefly due to the fact that there are seven rewards hanging over his head, was identified by Sergeant William A. Smith, head of the local army recruiting station. Seven times Mosely is known to have enlisted and to have deserted as often. Sergeant Smith says he may have deserted even oftener, but that there is no record of it.

Feudists Indicted for Murder.

Hindman, Ky., July 25.—The Knott county grand jury has returned indictments against Silas Martin and Alexander Martin, charging them with shooting from ambush Richard Hall and William Thornberry, last Wednesday. Sheriff Hays went with a posse of men Saturday to the scene of the feud which is one of the headwaters of Beaver Creek, but returned today, saying that neither of the men could be found.

Oldest Postal Employee.

Louisville, July 25.—John Strassburg, the oldest employee in the United States postal service, died of old age at 3:40 o'clock at his home, 940 East Washington street. He had been ill but a short time, for only Monday a week ago had he taken to his bed. Mr. Strassburg was a man of splendid physique throughout the sixty-three years of his government service.

Side Door Will Go at Newport.

Newport, Ky., July 25.—Governor Beckham will not be called on to enforce the Sunday closing law in Newport. The pastors of the various churches have concluded not to take radical measures on this question, but to continue the fight now against gambling. As saloons are conducted on Sundays, visitors to the city or others are led to believe that no business is being done.

McCreary's Secretary Ill.

Richmond, Ky., July 25.—Henry B. Cosby, private secretary to United States Senator McCreary, was taken ill last night with acute indigestion and was removed to the infirmary. He was improved this morning. Overwork is said to have been the cause of the attack.

Ollie Is Coming Home.

Louisville, July 25.—A letter was received by a close personal friend of Congressman Ollie James, in Louisville today, stating that he will land in New York August 8, and will take the first train for Kentucky. Mr. James prefers to make any announcement relative to the race for governor of Kentucky, rather than from London or New York.

Has Fun With Snakes.

Owensboro, Ky., July 25.—Leonard Earl son of T. L. Earl, of this city, unearthed a nest containing eighty-four rattlesnakes while plowing in a field just below here. The boy killed five of the snakes and captured seventy-nine. After exhibiting the captured snakes for some time the boy killed all of them. They were rattlesnakes.

WILLIAM A. EDWARDS.

Appointed Postal Carrier and J. J. Gentry Substitute.

William A. Edwards has received his appointment as postal carrier in the local post-office and assumed his duties today, succeeding Jesse Cud, who resigned to go to Oklahoma. Mr. Edwards was substitute, and he is succeeded by John J. Gentry, who recently passed the civil service examination.

The Texas Wonder

Cures all kidney, bladder and rheumatic troubles; sold by J. H. Oehl-schlaeger, 601 Broadway, Dr. E. W. Hall, office 2936 Olive street, St. Louis, Mo.

Mrs. Eugene Hession and Mrs. Richard Jacobs have returned from Owensboro where they had been visiting.

OPEN PUBLICITY THE BEST GUARANTEE OF MERIT.

When the maker of a medicine, sold through druggists for family use, takes his patients fully into his confidence by frankly and fearlessly publishing broadcast as well as on its bottle wrappers, a full list of all its ingredients in plain English, this action on his part is the best possible evidence that he is not afraid to have the search light of investigation turned full upon his formula and that it will bear the closest scrutiny and the most thorough investigation.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for the cure of the weaknesses, periodical pains and functional derangements of the organs distinctly feminine, is the only medicine put up for sale through druggists for woman's special use, the maker of which is not afraid to take his patients into his full confidence by such open and honest publicity.

A glance at the published ingredients on each bottle wrapper, will show that it is made wholly from native, American, medicinal roots, that it contains no poisonous or habit-forming drugs, no narcotics and no alcohol—pure, triple-refined glycerine, of proper strength being used instead of the commonly employed alcohol, both for extracting and preserving the active medicinal properties found in the roots of the American forest plants employed. It is the only medicine for women's peculiar diseases, sold by druggists, that does not contain a large percentage of alcohol, which is in the long run so harmful to woman's delicate, nervous system. Now, glycerine is perfectly harmless, and serves a valuable purpose by possessing intrinsic value all its own, and besides it enhances the curative effect of the other ingredients entering into the "Favorite Prescription."

Some of the ablest medical writers and teachers endorse these views and praise all the several ingredients of which "Favorite Prescription" is composed—recommending them for the cure of the very same diseases for which this world-famous medicine is advised. No other medicine for women has any such professional endorsement—worth more than any number of ordinary testimonials. If interested, send name and address to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for his little book of extracts from the works of eminent medical writers and teachers, endorsing the several ingredients and telling just what Dr. Pierce's medicines are made of. It's free for the asking.

Congress is most calamitous when it strikes down its victim with its purposes unfulfilled. When it puts a period to a completed activity, to an effort accomplished, finished, and forever linked into place in that endless chain which we call life it bears with it a certain logical consolation. Congressman H. C. Adams, who died at the close of the last session of congress, had done his work. Like the man himself, his achievement lacked in the picturesque and bravehearted elements that make for general acclaim. His special study had been the preservation of the public health through guardianship of food supply. So, when the now famous meat inspection bill became a sudden issue, and the committee chairman in charge of it threw the weight of his influence against the public and in favor of the packing interests, the quiet, earnest, hard-working Wisconsin representative was called upon by the president to assume the burden of the battle in the lower house. Only a few days before, in half-humorous, half-mournful acceptance of his own physical inefficiency, he had said: "I've got about one more good fight in me before I give out." How ungrudgingly he gave his little remaining strength his colleagues know better than do the people whom he served so well. The meat inspection law as it stands is a monument to his wise, just, and self-effacing leadership. This being accomplished, he threw himself into the pure food fight, and there exerted a powerful though not a conspicuous influence in strengthening the measure. As he had unflinchingly foreseen, his frail and failing body succumbed to the strain. Opportunity had confronted him like a threat. He accepted it as it came. His right to rest was nobly earned, in the simple old phrase of fundamental patriotism: "He, too, had been of some service to the republic."—Collier's for July 25.

WORK WEAKENS THE KIDNEYS

Doan's Kidney Pills Have Done Great Service for People Who Work in Paducah.

Most Paducah people work every day in some strained, unnatural position—bending constantly over a desk—riding on jolting wagons or cars—doing laborious housework; lifting, reaching or pulling, or trying the back to a hundred and one other ways. All these strains tend to wear, weaken and injure the kidneys until they fall behind in their work of filtering the poisons from the blood. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys, but new strength in bad backs. Paducah cures prove it.

T. W. Woodson, of 40 South Ninth street, painter, employed with C. D. Warren, 408 1/2 Broadway, says: "Every painter is more or less troubled with his kidneys on account of the nature of his work. We all know what causes it, but how to remove it is a mystery. I tried lots of medicine and different schemes, but until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Alvey & List's drug store and took them I met with very indifferent success. They cured the trouble."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

ONE-HALF OFF ON ALL CHILDREN'S WASH SUITS

Advertising Boston.

We cannot speak too highly of the wisdom displayed by the city fathers in Boston who have appropriated $50,000, and taken steps to secure a like amount by popular subscription, for the laudable purpose of developing their city by means of printers' ink. Imbued with the belief that advertising is good for individuals and corporations engaged in business, they have wisely concluded that Boston's industry and commerce can be increased by a resort to the accredited channels of publicity. This is not by any means an initial or a pioneer movement. Many cities and towns throughout the union in recent years have added to their growth through advertising. Such publicity attracts outside capital, which, in turn, strengthens the community, gives an impetus to industry and increases its general prosperity. When Mayor Fitzgerald assumed office he voiced a demand for "a Greater Boston." We feel that his hopes in that direction will now be realized, for advertising is the keynote of commercial success today, and the individual, corporation or municipality that seeks returns without its aid is merely wasting effort.—Wall Street Journal.

The Wall Street Journal is right. Advertising is the keynote of success in nearly every business, whether that business be the development of a state, a city or an individual industry. Boston's proposition to spend $100,000 in advertising is more than matched by St. Louis, which expects to spend several times that amount in general advertising. The south is seeking immigration and new industries, and yet most southern legislatures would regard an annual expenditure of $10,000 to attract immigration as bordering on wild extravagance, but Cuba wants immigration, and does not need it one-half so badly as the south, and its congress has voted $1,000,000 to be expended in that work. A few days ago a Florida planter came into the office of the Manufacturers' Record to inquire whether he could be directed to any source from which he could secure farm laborers. "My plantation," said he, "produces only about 100 bales of cotton annually, against 400 bales before the war, simply because of the lack of labor to cultivate it." From a truck-grower in the same state comes a similar appeal. In fact, everywhere throughout the farming regions the cry for labor is as pronounced as in the factories and mines. Landowners are begging for men to cultivate their idle property, furnaces and mines are running far short of their capacity because workers are not to be had, cotton mills are consuming half a million bales less than they would be using if they could put their idle spindles and looms to work. And yet while the south is doing much talking about these needs, it is really doing but little active work. The state which needs laborers must follow Boston's example and be ready to spend liberally to get them. The average man would think that certainly Boston, with its vast wealth and its great industrial interests (the factories within the city limits in 1900 exceeding in capital the aggregate manufacturing capital of Georgia and Alabama in the same year), would hardly need to advertise, but the spirit of New England knows no limit to its activities, and to this

TALK OF DIVORCE IN THAW FAMILY

Evelyn is Tired of It All and Would be Her Old Self.

Not All Peace and Harmony by Any Means, Say Her Friends—After Evidence.

MOTHER WILL STAND BY HER.

Pittsburg, Pa., July 25.—Pittsburg is entertaining itself with the report that Mrs. Evelyn Nesbit Thaw is getting data through her friends for the purpose of getting a divorce from her husband at the earliest opportunity. The story will not down, and those close to the family assert that it has been some time since Mrs. Thaw the younger declared herself on this subject.

Friends here who hear from the inside at New York daily do not accept the tales that all is lovely in the Thaw family.

That Mrs. William Thaw has been forced to accept Evelyn for the time is the understanding here. It was a few weeks before the last trip to New York of the Thaws that Mrs. Harry K. Thaw declared herself plainly to her fashionable mother-in-law and her other relatives.

There had been another social function which had turned Evelyn down and she was more than angry, so, taking a certain actress to the home of her husband's mother, Lyndhurst, so the story goes, Mrs. Harry Thaw forgot her troubles in a cloud of cigarette smoke, in which she was joined by her visitor.

The elder Mrs. Thaw returning to her home unexpectedly, caught her beautiful daughter-in-law puffing cigarette smoke like a veteran and there was trouble of many kinds at once.

It was here the young wife declared that she was tired of everything. She had tired of Pittsburg, of the Thaw family, was tired of the whole world, and she avowed her intention of being her old original self as soon as she could possibly arrange it. It was here that Mrs. William Thaw got her first intimation that Evelyn had a temper of her own and that she would not be overridden longer by her husband or by her mother-in-law.

Mother Will Stand By Her.
Mrs. Charles J. Holman said today, when discussing her published letters:

"And there is more, much more, to be told yet."

The woman who wrote the letters to Stanford White regarding Harry Thaw and her daughter, Evelyn Nesbit, is evidently not a bit frightened at the espionage which Detective Roger O'Meara has sought to exercise over her, and it now begins to look as if there would be a fight at this end of the line in the Thaw matter.

Mrs. Holman has decided to stick by her daughter, the same daughter who, at the suggestion of her new relatives, cast her off entirely on the eve of her wedding, is announced today in Brookline where Mrs. Holman is well known and has many warm friends.

Murder Trials.

Dr. Andrew D. White, speaking at the Cornell Summer school last week, asserted the necessity for changes in our methods of conducting criminal trials in order that the conviction of rich murderers may not be practically impossible and that of the poor ones dangerously uncertain. "While the number of murders," he said, "is rapidly increasing, the procedure against them is becoming more and more ineffective, and, in the light of recent cases in New York and elsewhere is seen to be a farce." The remedy proposed by Dr. White is the abolition of appeals "based on mere technical matters and errors of trial judges in trifling matters of procedure and the like, which have nothing to do with the question of guilt or innocence."

The suggestion has force for it is known to all who have given the subject any attention that the protection intended for the innocent, and desperately needed by them in other days, has now been transformed into what amounts to protection for the guilty. To abolish the right of appeal on "technicalities," however, would be certainly difficult, and almost certainly dangerous, and we incline to the opinion that more murderers would be convicted, and convicted more promptly, if the abolition were that of capital punishment. Far from all of us are yet convinced that the death penalty for those who kill is either excessive or useless, but the disinclination to have any part in imposing it is already widespread and is fast becoming general. It is true that with the law as it is, many of our murder trials are farcical in both progress and result, the "benefit of the doubt" is carried absurdly far, and many a criminal whose guilt is known to all gets no punishment at all or less than he should, simply because the gallows and "the chair" have become too horrible for modern contemplation in any except cases of particular atrocity. When women are the murderers, it is openly admitted by governors and others that only a "colorable excuse" is needed to save them from the legal penalty.

In other words, the spirit of the law has already been changed, and only the letter remains. That, too, might as well go. While we have any criminal procedure at all, some sort of technical errors will have to be recognized as valid basis for appeal, but it will never be very hard to send the known murderer to prison if that is all that can be done to him. And perhaps money does not count as much as Dr. White fears. The Terzanova girl had no money. —N. Y. Times.

He Had Done Enough.

A revolutionary veteran running for congress in days before the civil war, had as his opponent a young man who had never been a soldier. In his speeches the revolutionary hero made the most of his "record."

"Fellow-citizens," he would say, "I have fought and bled for my country. I have helped repulse the British tyrant. I have helped repel the savage Indians. I have slept upon the field of battle with no other covering than the canopy of heaven. I have plodded barefoot over the frozen ground until every footstep was marked with blood."

At the close of one of these speeches an old man, wiping the tears from his eyes with the ends of his coat tails, elbowed his way up to the speaker.

"You've fought both the British and the Indians," he asked.

"I have, sir."

"An' you've slept on the ground without kiver?"

"I have, sir."

"An' ye say that your feet have covered the ground ye walked on with blood?"

"They have sir," said the speaker, delighted that his words had made such a profound impression.

"Well, then," said the old man turning away with a sigh of deep emotion, "I'm a-feared I'll have to vote for that other feller for I'll be gosh-blamed if you ain't done enough for yer country already."

REPORT IS DENIED BY MR. HARAHAH

No Changes in Operating Department of I. C.

Inspection of Louisville Division Is Being Made to Secure Data of Condition.

CAR STARTS FROM PADUCAH.

No Changes Contemplated.

Nashville, July 25.—The report in the Chicago papers that reached Nashville this week to the effect that the operating department of the Illinois Central was to undergo a complete reorganization, effective August 1, is denied today by Fourth Vice-President W. J. Harahan, who is in the city on one of his periodical visits.

Mr. Harahan, who is in charge of the operating department of the road, expressed surprise at the reports and said that there was absolutely nothing in them as the operating force was entirely satisfactory, and while there might be minor changes from time to time, nothing in the nature of a general reorganization had ever been discussed or thought of.

Division Inspection.

A minute inspection of the Louisville division of the Illinois Central from Paducah to Louisville, is being made today and a complete record of even the smallest details made. This is the first time such an inspection was ordered and even the telegraph poles, cattle-guards and gates and mile-posts will be counted and tabulated according to grade.

E. I. Wenger, of Campaign, Ill., who is regularly stationed on the "grade" car, was in the city with his car last night and this morning started out on the inspection. The car resembles a caboose and is fitted out with dials and meters for securing the grade, even to the smallest fraction of an inch. Three apprentice boys, Rupert Robertson, Charles Herdy, and Charles Mercer, were taken along on the trip to count telegraph poles and cattle-guards. They will make the trip to Louisville.

By this inspection the division, which is considered one of the most important on the system, will be properly recorded, and it will facilitate the work of improving it. The grades between Paducah and Princeton are to be cut down.

Mr. G. M. Stonebreaker, general yard-master of the Illinois Central, is in Chicago spending his three weeks' vacation. In his absence Mr. Clarence Graves, formerly night yard-master, but now chief clerk to the general yard-master, is acting for him. Mr. Stonebreaker will visit in St. Louis and Rock Island, Ill., before his return.

First Typewriting Machine.

"C. Latham Sholes is the man to whom we owe the typewriter of today," said an inventor. "He has been dead over fifteen years. The history of the typewriter is interesting. The first patented machine was Henry Mill's. It was as big as a bureau and made no popular appeal. This was in England in 1714. The first type-bar machine was made in America. Its inventor was A. H. Beach. The patent was taken out in 1856. The Beach typewriter was not practical. The first practical typewriter was invented by Latham Sholes in 1867. Sholes had for partners S. W. Soule and Carlos Glidden, but these two men became discouraged and dropped out.

"It wasn't till some years later that Sholes got his machine ready for the market. Then he took it to a big firm of gun makers, the Remingtons, and it at once began to sell on a large scale. The Remington name was a famous one for guns, but it is more famous now for writing machines, and thus we have another proof of the truth of the old proverb about the typewriter (which is the modern pen) being mightier than the gun (our modern sword). Sholes remained in the employ of the Remingtons up to the time of his death."—Chicago Chronicle.

A Whisper.

"I love you, dear." High in the tree That spread its sheltering branches near.

A song-bird trilled an ecstasy. "I love you, dear."

The gray mist rose from hill and mere.

But no rain fell for you and me; And all our sky was bright and clear.

'Tis such a happy thing to see The sunshine through the clouds appear.

Many Interesting Stories are Told About the Late Russell Sage

Russell Sage was the absolute incarnation of work. In so far as that is the American ideal, he was the perfect exponent of it. He carried it to the "inextensible extreme." He was nothing but work. In his later years men often asked him why he kept at labor when he could not count the millions he already possessed. "I must keep going," he said. "I should die if I did not."

All of the stories of his extreme frugality and his strictness with his clerks rank around the carrying out of his gospel of work. He disapproved of holidays and never took a vacation, denying these even to his office force, because they interfered with his working. Since he was a boy he never spent 10 cents if 5 cents or better, 3 1-2 cents, would accomplish the purpose.

His Famous $12 Suit.

Beneath 71 Broadway, where his business was carried on, was a clothing store. When Sage passed out of the building his eye would fall on the suits of clothes hung up in the window bearing placards $12 each. Day by day he noticed this, but waited for a drop in the market for ready-made clothes.

Sage wanted one of the suits, and having it he must. The weather was growing warm and he couldn't wait. So he took a grip on his bank roll and entered the store. A salesman who had seen him pass recognized him, and greeted him with, "What can I do for you, Mr. Sage?"

"I want to look at one of those suits in the window," said the financier. One of the finest $12 suits was brought up, and Sage ran his hand over the texture. It was smooth, soft and light. Just what he wanted.

"How much?" he asked.

"Twelve," said the salesman.

Mr. Sage felt again. The market was weak across the street in the exchange, so, feeling his way, he bid $10.

"We have only one price here, Mr. Sage."

"Ten dollars and two shillings."

"Not under twelve, Mr. Sage."

"Ten dollars and four shillings," bid Mr. Sage.

"Nope," said the salesman.

"Well," said Mr. Sage. "I'll tell you what I'll do. I'll give you ten dollars and six shillings and carry them upstairs myself."

This proposition was declined, as the others had been.

"I guess the warm weather won't last long anyway and I'll get along with this and my other suit very well."

The great deal was off.

Too Much for the Sandwich.

It was one of the duties of his office boy each day to obtain for Mr. Sage a cheese sandwich and of this cheese sandwich the great financier made his lunch. Once the boy made a mess of his assignment. He bought a good enough sandwich, but paid 15 cents for it, and only returned 10 cents change out of the quarter. Mr. Sage was astonished. No such thing had occurred in his office in twenty-five years, and he fixed a cold, searching eye upon the lad as he demanded 5 cents more.

"They charged me 15 cents for it," said the boy.

"I never heard of such extravagance," said Mr. Sage. "Do you think I get rich by paying 15 cents for cheese sandwiches? I'll dock 5 cents from your salary this week, young man, and that will be a lesson to you."

And the boy was docked. It was a lesson to him.

Once while purchasing a suit of ready-made clothing he lost his pocketbook containing bank notes and valuable papers, discovering his loss when he reached his office. He went back to the store, notified the cashier's desk, and was told that one of the floor boys had found his pocketbook and turned it in. The boy was brought up and introduced to the millionaire. Patting him on the head "Uncle Russell" said:

"You're an honest lad and will get your reward in heaven."

No Prey to Bunko Men.

Sage's bucolic appearance attracted many a bunko man. He had the same effect on them as the "werry stout gent with his big gold watch" whom Sam Weller tells about had upon the pickpockets of London. There was an essential difference, though. The "stout gent" finally met a pickpocket who proved too crafty for him—who employed a small boy to butt him in the stomach while he pulled the watch out of the fob. Sage never met his Waterloo.

Bunko men have seized him and told him about town. Some have given him dinners, and others have given him carriage rides. All their arts and wiles were wasted on him. He invariably agreed with them until a suggestion that he should invest money in something would be made. Then he would draw the line, and the nephew of the Cohoes banker would plead in vain. Mr. Sage knew and saw every game that the ungodly have invented, but always escaped with his fleece.

Liberal With Advice.

There is one thing that he did give freely, and that is advice. Economy was his theme, and once launched on this attractive topic, he could talk eloquently.

"Oh, Mr. Sage," said one of the women who made their living by scrubbing out the big Arcade building, "these are hard days for me, and I thought you might give me a little help, for you know that I'm a hard working woman, and my husband's down with a broken leg, and my daughter is sick and one of the children has got the diphtheria, and, sure, if any one dies, I have no money for the funeral; and I can't pay the doctor, and there is nothing to eat in the house."

"Too bad! too bad!" murmured Mr. Sage. "but I'm afraid that money would do you no good. How much do you earn a week here?"

"Six dollars, sir."

"And how long have you been here?"

"Ten years."

"Six dollars a week is $312 a year. If you had been an economical woman you would have saved at least 50 per cent of your income, or $156 or, adding interest, about $1,700. Now, take my advice and make a point, during the next ten years, of saving at least 50 per cent of your earnings."

Laidlaw Case Famous.

But by far the most famous case of this kind, and one which brought Sage's name to the ears of many millions, was the long-drawn-out Laidlaw suit. On December 4, 1891, a crank named Norcross in some way passed the serried guards at the door and came into Sage's private office with a bag filled with dynamite.

"Sign me a check for $1,000,000 or I drop this bag of dynamite," shouted Norcross. After parleying a while, Sage refused. Norcross dropped the bag, and just as he did so Sage rushed behind his clerk Laidlaw.

The terrific explosion wrecked the room, killed Norcross, and mutilated Laidlaw for life. Sage was only slightly injured.

After Laidlaw had been in the hospital four months, he came out a hopeless cripple. He asked Sage for damages. Sage refused and Laidlaw began suit for $25,000, which, after running three years, was denied. Then Laidlaw asked for $50,000. That suit ran for about five years and became involved in inextricable legal tangles. Laidlaw was backed in his fight by Joseph H. Choate, afterward ambassador to England. He died long before the legal tangles were straightened out.

And the most characteristic thing about Sage was that when he was dragged from beneath the debris, he said indignantly "I paid $15 for this suit of clothes and I've only had it two years—and now look at it."

While waiting for the surgeon's verdict on his life, he sent a clerk to secure an important secret contract, just signed, which lay on his desk, lest some one might get a glance at it.

No Holiday for Clerks.

The only known time when he ever took a rest was once when he was sick for two weeks. It was his favorite maxim that a young man should never take a vacation. He never allowed his clerks a holiday.

Naming a president of the United States was one of the experiences of Sage. In his younger days he was in politics. He served four years in congress, but stepped out because "it did not pay."

He was chairman of the New York delegation to the Whig convention which nominated Zachary Taylor for president. As a concession for his throwing the twenty-eight votes of his delegation to Gen. Taylor he was allowed to name the vice-president, and happened to pick out Millard Fillmore a young lawyer of Buffalo. Taylor died half through his term and Fillmore became president.

While in congress Sage helped elect N. P. Banks speaker of the house. Banks in return offered him the chairmanship of any committee except ways and means. But he desired a place on that committee, and was made second member. He often attributed much of his business success to his experience on that committee, which has more than any other to do with running the United States government.

His one diversion was his team, a pair of fine bays, which he loved to drive to a light buggy in the park every afternoon.

Mr. Sage was a member of the West Presbyterian church, the pastor of which was the Rev. Dr. John R. Paxton. He had a fine pew and took a lively interest in church work, being an old fashioned Presbyterian, who believed in predestination and was perfectly sure of his own election.

At the church Mr. Sage was greatly deferred to, and thought to be a peculiar man, not ungenerous in a good cause, provided that he was sure of getting what he considered to be his money's worth.

Daily Thought.

"As the world grows older it teaches only more earnestly that true manhood cannot be except through faith in God and obedience to the law of purity and unselfish service."

OPEN KENTUCKY AVENUE.

Another tragedy of the "red light" brings into the glare of public notice the "plague spot" of Paducah, allowed to exist without hindrance or notice, except when twice a year the "white slaves" are rounded up and fined a nominal sum. Such places subvert the youths of a community, corrupting the morals and breeding vice and pestilence. They are the abiding places of thieves and thugs, and they poison the moral atmosphere of a city like a social canker. Not only do these places break a dozen laws every day and every night, but they actually make the Sunday and midnight closing laws a travesty in Paducah; for, while the saloons are closed on Sunday and at midnight, these "red light joints" are reaping a harvest, and not one of them possesses a city license.

The same sort of treatment accorded poor negro men, and women, arrested and fined in the police court, should tend to make the "red light" unpopular; but no effort seems to be made to even suppress the flaunting lawlessness of the district. It matters not that the women would fight the cases and that some of them own their own houses. The fact that a thief owns the tools with which he commits burglary, or the gambler owns the paraphernalia with which he operates, does not prevent the authorities from imprisoning the guilty and destroying their property.

While the police could be doing their duty in trying to stamp out the evil, the general council might be attending to a crying necessity—the opening of Kentucky avenue across the Illinois Central railroad tracks. There are two things the "red light" can not stand—publicity and plenty of light. There is not a street open from Broadway to Tennessee street. Kentucky avenue properly paved would become a good street for driving, and with plenty of lights along the route, the frequenters of the "red light" would avoid the region lest they be seen and socially ostracized. The opening of Kentucky avenue and Tenth street, coupled with the resulting travel to the school house, the public library and the churches in the vicinity, would soon make these present locations unpleasantly and unprofitably conspicuous for the slave traders of Paducah.

The mayor of Evansville has served notice that he will "put the lid" on January 1, 1907. There may be nothing in a name, but there is everything in a phrase. How different would the ultimatum of the mayor of Evansville have sounded if he had said he would begin enforcing the law January 1. That is the meaning of "putting on the lid," but somehow, the pure English expression conveys the idea of a present lax execution of the law, while the slang phrase rings like a challenge to the powers of evil. The mayor of Evansville, if forced to explain, probably would excuse his conduct by invoking the "unwritten law" of fair play, declaring that he has no desire to take advantage of anyone and is giving them all fair warning. There is too much of this fair play sophistry in this country. Carrying the argument out to its logical extreme, we should give the burglar fair warning when we catch him looting our premises, and notify the detected pickpocket that after January 1 we will have him arrested if he persists. One class of law-breakers is entitled to no more consideration than another, and yet mayors of cities take to themselves much credit for declaring that at some future date they intend to begin performing their sworn duty.

Repeated reports of outrages against American citizens in the Isle of Pines are reaching Washington and the people. If such conditions exist, of course, this government will protect its citizens, but since there is an effort being made by certain interests in the island to bring it under American control willy-nilly, the reports can be taken with a grain of salt. The question of the sovereignty of the islands is not yet settled, but this big government is not likely to permit the agitation of plantation owners to force it into doing an injustice to our foster child, Cuba.

That would be a marvelous feat of municipal engineering, to get a sufficient fall for surface drainage on a perfectly level street, but Paducah's engineers hardly feel equal to the task. As a matter of fact, the comprehensive plans for a complete sewer system prepared at the instance of the general council, contemplates the installation of underground storm water drainage, which is the only kind possible in a city presenting the topographical features of Paducah.

Holland is the home of the stork. If we are to repose confidence in all those picturesque views of Dutch houses with the ungainly figures standing on one leg on the roof tree; but the national bird seems to have played the royal family a scurvy trick this week.

Because a dog license tag was found in a can of corned beef in Chicago, the public seems to have jumped at a conclusion. How often must people be told that they cannot judge of the contents of one of those cans by appearance.

It is rumored that some members of that Kentucky press crowd, when their "red licker" was detained at the railroad station at Grayson Springs, started out on a "still" hunt for the substance with eminent success.

Guardian Gone.

Joliet, Ill., July 25.—Louis A. Gourdain, who claims to be seeking to have a penitentiary sentence against him enforced, has suddenly left Joliet together with his wife and all baggage. He went away today on a Rock Island west-bound train. It is reported that he has gone to New Orleans to board his yacht.

The Cure of Headaches.

By Osteopathy.
"What bone would you pull to treat a headache?" asked a layman. Any bone that may be out of its correct position in the neck or back, so as to bring its pressure upon the nerves which express the pain sense—that is, if the headache happens to be due to a bony slip; but of course it may not be at all. That is one frequent cause, but there are many others which are apt to be operative. A muscular contraction in the back in the neck, or over the head, may likewise cause headache. Indigestion, eye-strain, mental fatigue, a sluggish liver, constipation, kidney disease, and many other things are frequent causes of headache. Hence the cure of headache osteopathically is the cure of its cause or causes. To find the remedy these causes, having as they usually do, an anatomical basis, requires special and thorough training, and that is why osteopathy exists as an independent school of medicine. Its practitioners are specialists. They cure headaches, as they do other diseases not by "pulling" a bone, unless a bone needs "pulling," but by finding the cause of each special headache and giving that cause whatever treatment is needed to cure it. So in a dozen different headaches none might be treated alike osteopathically, and yet ten or eleven of the dozen would likely be cured.

Osteopathy is probably doing more for suffering humanity than any recent discovery, and I should like for you to investigate its merits. I should be pleased to see all who may be interested in osteopathy at any time from 9 a. m. to 12 and 2 to 5 p. m.

Osteopathy is the sane, rational treatment of illness and disorders.

A TRAIN OF THOUGHT.

NO PROSECUTION OF SON'S SLAYER

empaneled and duly sworn, find that the dead body viewed by us as John Mix, and that he came to his death by a pistol shot in the hands of Cleo Anderson at about 11 o'clock p. m., on the night of July 23, 1906, in the rear of Charles Graham's saloon at the corner of Ninth and Kentucky avenue in Paducah, Ky.

Signed—A. W. Townsend, Harvey D. Phillips, S. B. Pryor, Ed Hansen, M. J. Michaelson, W. W. Brame.

Three witnesses testified but not one saw the shooting. McCord and Anderson, the latter of whom is said to have done the shooting, were not introduced. Anderson was represented at the inquest by Attorneys Hendrick, Miller and Marble. The county prosecuting attorney, Alben Barkley, represented the commonwealth's interests.

Ed Scott who was with Mix when the first trouble resulted, testified that he and Mix were in Sue Eggleston's resort on Kentucky avenue and that the entire party was drinking. Mix gave Parley McCord a hamburger or part of a hamburger sandwich and took a bottle of liquor from McCord. Scott took the bottle from Mix and returned it to its owner, and on invitation of McCord the entire party took a drink. A discussion followed in which McCord and Mix used rough language. It ended in Mix slapping McCord. The latter drew a razor and tried to cut Mix but Scott, threw his coat over the blade and Mix escaped. At the same time he pushed Mix out of the door and left the house. McCord and Anderson were in one party and followed Mix, and Scott to the Black-nail saloon.

Mix complained to Pat Lydon, bartender for Blacknail, that McCord was following him with a razor and hastily left the place. The two met Jim Doolin near Graham's saloon and the three went inside to secure a drink. This is as far as Scott could tell about the shooting, as he remained inside the building during the entire occurrence.

Lydon Testifies.

Pat Lydon, bartender for Blacknail, testified that Mix had complained to him that McCord was following him with a razor and was in fear he might get into trouble with the boy. This is as much as he knew.

Doolin Star Witness.

Jim Doolin proved to be the only eye-witness who is disinterested. He testified that he and Mix went outside the saloon, in the lot in the rear and as they stepped off the stoop he noticed McCord sitting with his head hanging as if he was or had been vomiting. Mix immediately became enraged and jumped on McCord saying "O, yes, you are still following me about, are you?" He began to beat the youngster rather severely and Anderson stood by. Mix directed Doolin to "attend to him, meaning Anderson, after Anderson commanded Mix to desist from punishing McCord. Doolin refused and Anderson at this juncture pulled out his pistol and held it at his side. "I guess you had better take a walk," he suggested in mandatory tones to Doolin and Doolin started walking.

"I had just about got around the corner when I heard a pistol shot. I did not see, but believe that Mix was shot while he was still astride McCord," was the declaration Doolin made. Doolin did not stop but continued on his way.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO WAIT
Every dose makes you feel better. Lax-Pop keeps your whole system right. Sold on the money back plan everywhere. Write for it.

continued until he had walked to Ninth street and Broadway.
Drs. J. D. Robertson and Frank Boyd testified as to the wound, and County Attorney Alben Barkley said he had the dying statement of Mix, but did not care to introduce it. The jury considered this sufficient evidence.

Cases Put On Docket.

The jury was "up a stump" for a time and was undecided if a verdict charging Anderson with the responsibility could be returned as no shot had been introduced who saw the shot fired and could swear that Anderson fired it. County Attorney Barkley stated that he knew Anderson admitted he fired the shot. This settled the matter and the verdict was written out.

This morning in police court the names of McCord and Anderson were docketed, the former charged with malicious shooting with intent to kill, and latter with having aided and abetted the act. The cases were dismissed and a new warrant will be issued this afternoon.

All witnesses have been recognized to appear in police court Friday morning when the case will be taken up for investigation.

Smallpox at Panama.

Washington, July 25.—W. C. Gorgas, the chief sanitary officer of the Isthmus of Panama, made a report of the smallpox at Colon, which reached the Isthmian canal commission office in this city today. About 35 cases have been quarantined, all of which were found in the same part of Colon. So far there have been no deaths, and Col. Gorgas says there seems to be no danger of an epidemic of smallpox.

Charges That Corpse Was Lost.

Chattanooga, Tenn., July 25.—C. L. Aments, of the Grand Hotel, Cincinnati, O., says he will enter suit against the Southern Railway when he gets home because in delays in traveling from Birmingham to this city, and he charges that the corpse of W. P. Thompson, who lived in Cincinnati, was lost between Birmingham and this city.

Prisoners Not Shot.

Washington, July 25.—Charges made in Salvador that Guatemala could not comply with the terms of the Martineau pact relating to the exchange of prisoners of war because such prisoners had been killed by the Guatemalan forces are stoutly denied in a dispatch Mr. Munoz, the Guatemalan minister, received today from his government.

Slaughter-Houses Closed.

Philadelphia, July 25.—At a meeting of the board of health today an announcement was made that twenty slaughter houses recently condemned as unsanitary had closed permanently. Sixteen other establishments were improved by order of the board and the owner of one slaughtering house who refused to obey the mandate to improve his plant was ordered prosecuted.

Dead Man Driver for Hours.

Wichita, Kan., July 25.—Thomas Freeman, a contractor, rode in the streets for hours today in his buggy, and when the horses finally stopped at a building of which Freeman had charge it was found that the driver was dead. Freeman was 46 years old and leaves a widow.

Lid Goes January 1.

Evansville, Ind., July 25.—Mayor John W. Boehne, who is at French Lick Springs, Ind., sent a communication to the board of safety today stating that beginning January 1, 1907, the lid will be put on tight here and all saloons will have to close on Sunday.

German View of Situation.

Berlin, July 25.—Germany is fairly ablaze with condemnation of the dissolution of the douma, which is branded as the act of a weak-willed and benighted ruler who has forfeited the last vestige of respect which the world had left for him.

Tammany for Hearst?

New York, July 25.—Charles F. Murphy, leader of Tammany Hall, said today it was possible that Tammany would support William R. Hearst for the Democratic nomination for governor in the next state convention.

CONTRACT SYSTEM
RECEIVES A BLOW

Eight-Hour Day Will Force Them to Withdraw.

Government Work Will Have to Be Done by Departments Hereafter It Is Believed.

PURE FOOD LAW CONSIDERED.

Washington, July 25.—The application of the president's order relative to the enforcement of the eight-hour law in the case of government contract work has proven more difficult in the case of the war department, owing to its more complex machinery, than with the navy department. So it has been found necessary to prepare separate circulars of instructions to the agents of the department engaged in different lines of work, all differing in some essential.

The opinion among the executive officers who have to do with public works is that the rigid application of the president's eight-hour order will sound the death knell of the whole system of government contract work, and that hereafter the government will be obliged to hire its own labor and carry on the public works under its own superintendence and inspectors. The contractors are now working in keen competition with the government in many places, and it is said, are badly holding their own. The application of the eight-hour law, according to executive officers here, will oblige them to do one of two things: Increase the price of their bids for government work to a point beyond the government estimates, in which case the department would do the work itself, or reduce the wages of the laborers and mechanics to make their productive capacity correspond dollar for dollar to their employees engaged in private work at ten hours per day.

Get Ready for Pure Food Law.

Washington, July 25.—The commission appointed by the secretary of the treasury, secretary of commerce and labor, and the secretary of agriculture to formulate rules and regulations for the enforcement of the pure food law, held its first meeting at the department of agriculture yesterday. Dr. H. W. Wiley, chemist of the department of agriculture, was elected president and James L. Gerry, chief of the division of customs of the treasury secretary. It was decided to begin work at once upon the regulations and the committee will meet from time to time for consultation as opportunities will be presented. Public hearings will be held beginning in New York city September 17.

Speakers Chosen for Heavy Work.

Oyster Bay, July 25.—Secretary Taft, Senator Beveridge, Secretary Shaw and Speaker Cannon were selected by the Republican committee at a conference with the president at Oyster Bay yesterday to do the heavy speaking in the coming congressional campaign. Practically every Republican member of congress will assist.

Headquarters are to be opened at New York tomorrow. New text-book containing policy to be issued within next two or three weeks.

To Confer Relative to Oil Inquiry.

Cleveland, O., July 25.—In response to a telegram from United States District Attorney Morrison of Chicago today, United States District Attorney Sullivan will leave tonight for the latter city to confer with Morrison and Oliver C. Pugin, special counsel of the department of justice, relative to the grand jury investigation of the Standard Oil company. It will be decided at this conference as to when the investigation will be taken up in Chicago and also as to the policy to be pursued regarding it.

Maneuvers of Atlantic Fleet.

Rockport, Mass., July 25.—The seven battleships of Rear Admiral Robley D. Evans' North Atlantic squadron steamed out of this harbor today to begin their summer maneuvers which already have been postponed several times on account of the thick weather. The sea was calm and the weather clear near the shore, but some distance out at sea was a thick bank of fog which it was thought would interfere seriously with extensive fleet movements.

Ironworkers' Strike Declared Off.

New York, July 25.—The strike of the housemiths and structural iron-workers, which was inaugurated seven months ago against the American Bridge company and the firm of Post & McCord, was declared off at a mass meeting of the union men held last night. The men returned to work today.

PEACHES! PEACHES!

Georgia Elberta in Paducah Market

WE have received one car of the celebrated ELBERTA PEACHES from Georgia. They will be on sale at leading groceries and market stalls Thursday morning at prices you can afford to pay for canning purposes. Housekeepers can't afford to miss this opportunity of obtaining nice fruit, as our home peach crop is very poor and these will probably be the only real fine peaches in the Paducah market this season.

AN APPEAL FOR JIM HOWARD'S FAMILY

Responding to an urgent appeal made by republicans and democrats alike, The Sun presents a plain statement of fact in regard to James B. Howard's stricken family.

James B. Howard is now confined in the penitentiary, where he will serve a life sentence, having been convicted of the murder of William Goebel, five years ago.

Mrs. James B. Howard and her three little children are the innocent victims of the predicament Mr. Howard finds himself placed in by process of law. For five years this heroic woman has labored unceasingly, and never without hope, to secure a vindication for her husband. Their little home has been swept into the legal maelstrom, and today they are dependent on charity for the clothes they wear, and even for the bread they eat.

This condition will not be permitted to remain as long as there are tender hearts in Old Kentucky. This loyal wife has, by a devotion typical of Southern womanhood, touched the finest instincts of the human race. Facing the darkest gloom, from day to day, she has presented to a devoted husband a smiling and unflinching optimism that has undoubtedly braced him for the heavy ordeal he has undergone.

These three children are winsome children—for both the father and mother are persons of education and refinement. They are denied a home, an opportunity to acquire knowledge, a right to a father's care and protection.

Is it not a worthy case? Think as you may of the guilt or innocence of Jim Howard, here are helpless beings cast adrift on a world none too sympathetic, unless aroused to the cry of urgent want.

The Sun will acknowledge receipt of all money sent to it for "The Mrs. James B. Howard Fund."

A dime, a dollar, a hundred dollars, or any amount, given in such a cause, will be "bread cast upon the waters," and such, the Great Father assures us "will come back an hundredfold."

Object of Lincoln Farm Association.

This is a patriotic association of the citizens of the United States, formed to develop the Lincoln birthplace farm at Hodgenville, Kentucky, into a permanent Lincoln National park—a park of patriotism. When finished the park will be the finest historical memorial in the country, and will stand forever as a source of pride to the state of Kentucky and the entire nation. In order that this park may be the work of the whole people, the funds to complete it are to be subscribed only in small sums, from 25 cents to $25.—every subscriber becoming an honorary member, and his or her name to be entered in the permanent catalogue to be kept in a place of honor at the park. An honorary certificate will be issued to every subscriber, and no further dues of any kind will ever be required or collected.

THE LINCOLN FARM ASSOCIATION.

Organized and incorporated to develop the Lincoln Birthplace Farm into a National Park.

IN HER STOCKING

Highwaymen Found Huge Roll of Bills Hidden Away.

Memphis Tenn., July 25.—Two highwaymen held up and robbed May Goodwin and Frankie Hern, of 3588 Old Madison street, in Raleigh boulevard, four miles from the city, securing $3,000 in diamonds and other jewels and $212 in cash. The women were driving when their horse was grasped by one of the highwaymen. By dropping rings in the bottom of the buggy, while removing others from their hands, Miss Goodwin saved about $700 and Miss Hern about $500. After getting the jewelry the searching highwayman removed from his place of seclusion in the stocking of Miss Hern $117 in bills, while $90 was taken from the hostery of Miss Goodwin. The thieves then allowed their victims to depart.

Bids for Garbage Contract.

St. Petersburg, July 25.—An address to the people, urging them to submit quietly to the decree of the czar, dissolving the duma and to prepare for another election, was issued today by two conservative members of parliament. These two declined to sign the manifesto adopted by the duma at St. Viborg.

A Prudent Attorney.

Former Senator John M. Thurston of Nebraska, who was representing the defense in a recent trial in one of the local courts, arose the other day to reply to argument of counsel for the government on a point of law.

In deliberate and impressive manner the attorney began a forceful presentation to the court. Before he had fairly launched his counter attack, however, he was interrupted by the presiding justice, who said that he was about to decide the question in favor of Senator Thurston.

"In that case," remarked Mr. Thurston, resuming his seat at once, "I will make no speech to the court for fear of changing your honor's opinion."—Washington Star.

PASSENGER BARGE MASTERS.

Will Hereafter Have to Take Out Licenses From Government.

Washington, July 25.—Regulations of the steamboat inspection service have been amended in some particulars, most of the amendments being purely administrative. The regulations thus promulgated provide, however, that the masters of passenger barges shall have to take out hereafter a license from the government. Another of the regulations provides for the use in life-saving work of a life-saving shoulder gun, which will throw a line about 800 feet. This is to be used in some instances in place of the cannon which heretofore has been used in the throwing of life lines.

TWENTY BUILDINGS.

Destroyed by Fire in Business Section of Kirdlin, Ind.

DIRT IN STREET

MUST BE CLEANED UP SAYS JUDGE PURYEAR.

Warrant Issued for Violation of City Ordinance and Warning Given—The Dockert.

Mike Gallagher engaged a negro teamster to haul some dirt and debris for him, instructing the driver to throw it over the fence. The rain Saturday prevented the negro from doing this and no lights were put out to warn the public of the danger. This morning Gallagher was cited for breach of ordinance.

"I am going to take some action in this matter," Judge Puryear stated. "There is too much of this street blockading going on in Paducah, and it has got to be stopped. I do not know whether Mr. Gallagher is really to blame for the dirt being in the street, but I do know that it is there and some one is responsible. I will render my decision tomorrow."

Other cases: Amos Fulk, drunk, $1 and costs; Jim Mason, breach of peace, continued; Kate Beasley, colored, drunk and disorderly continued; Butler Pondeau, drunk and disorderly, $10 and costs; Mary Ross, disorderly conduct, $2 and costs, fine suspended; John Ausenbaugh, Sam Logan, breach of peace, $3 and costs each; Nellie Reed, colored, breach of peace $10 and costs; Joe Grief, malicious assault, continued; G. O. Bick, drunk and disorderly, $3 and costs.

WOMEN DROWNED

But Men Escape in a Squall on Lake George.

Hulet's Landing, Lake George, N. Y., July 25.—Sophia and Corinne Piddian, of Brooklyn, were drowned yesterday while boating on the lake. The two women, accompanied by their brother, J. Piddian, and Stanley Lynch, started from this place in a light boat and rowed about a mile up the lake when the boat was capsized by a heavy squall and all were thrown into the water. The men clung to the boat and made a brave effort to rescue their companions. They were unable, however, to reach them and both women sank.

The West Kentucky Coal company and others against steamer Mary M. Michael.

Whereas libels were filed in the district court of the United States, for the western district of Kentucky, at Paducah, on the 21st and 22nd days of June, 1906, by the West Kentucky Coal company and Mississippi Valley Marine Railway and Dock company against the steamer Mary M. Michael, her engines, tackle, apparel and owners, alleging in substance that said steamer Michael was indebted to them in the sum aggregating $1,609.28 for fuel repairs, etc., and that same has never been paid, and prays process against said steamer Mary M. Michael and the same may be condemned and sold to pay said claims, with cost and expenses.

Now, therefore, in pursuance to the motion under seal of said court to me directed, I do hereby give public notice to all persons claiming said steamer Mary M. Michael, or in any way interested therein, that they may be and appear before the district court of the United States in the city of Paducah, Ky., on or before the 6th day of August, 1906, at 10 o'clock a. m., of that day, then and there to interpose their claims and to make their allegations in that behalf.

MANY CHILDREN

SICK WITH SUMMER COMPLAINT IN PADUCAH.

Over One Hundred Cases Existed a Few Weeks Ago—In Cities Condition is Grave.

What appears to have been an epidemic of summer sickness among small children is just now subsiding in Paducah. At its crest the number of sick children in the city was variously estimated at from 100 to 200 cases. It is a malignant form of bowel trouble and is more prevalent in cities than in the country or smaller towns. Observations by local physicians show that the child is most susceptible to an attack in its second year.

In Chicago and other large cities, this sickness among children is a harder problem for the doctors than any other disease. It especially is severe in the congested tenement districts or anywhere that there is insufficient pure air. In fact, there is no antidote so good as a pure atmosphere.

Half the World Wonders how the other half lives. Those who use Bucklen's Arnica Salve never wonder if it will cure. Cuts, Wounds, Burns, Sores and all Skin eruptions; they know it will. Mrs. Grant Shy, 1130 E. Reynolds St., Springfield, Ill., says: "I regard it one of the absolute necessities of housekeeping." Guaranteed by McPherson's drug store, 25c.

Hail, Bacchus. Who that once has known him can ever forget the great Galliasy, who drank seven in hand; that is, seven glasses so placed between the fingers of his right hand that, in drinking, the liquor fell into the next glass, and thereby he drank out of the first seven glasses at once.—London Special.

THE SMILE That won't come off appears on baby's face after one bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge, the great worm medicine. Why not keep that smile on baby's face. If you keep this medicine on hand you will never see anything else but smiles on his face. Mrs. S. Blackwell, Okla., writes: "My baby was peevish and fretful. Would not eat and I feared he would die. I used a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and he has not had a sick day since." Sold by all druggists.

Gives Away His Saloon. Jerry Miller, a saloon keeper of Bristol, Tenn., upon receiving word that he had fallen heir to mining property worth $2,000,000, gave his saloon to his barkeeper and announced that he would never sell another drop of an intoxicating beverage.

ABRAHAM LINCOLN Was a man who, against all odds, attained the highest honor a man can get in the United States. ## In the Bishop's Carriage

By MIRIAM NICHOLSON

(Copyright, 1906, by The Bobbs-Merrill Co.)

But in the heart of me I didn't believe in any chance but one—the chance that I'd find that blessed baby and get my fingers just once more on that precious paper.

I blew in the A. D.'s nickel on a cross-town car and got back to the little square. There was another organ grinder there grinding out coon songs, to which other pickaninies danced. But nary a little white bundle of stuff caught hold of my hand. I walked that square till my feet wore sore. It was hot. My throat was parched. I was hungry. My head ached. I was hopeless. And yet I just couldn't give it up. I had asked so many children and nurse maids whether they'd heard of the baby lost that morning and brought back by an officer, that they began to look at me as though I was not quite right in my mind. The maids grabbed the children if they started to come near me, and the children stared at me with big round eyes, as though they'd been told I was an ogre who might eat them.

I was hungry enough to eat. The little fruit stand at the entrance had a fascination for me. I found myself there time and again, till I got afraid I might actually try to get off with a peach or a bunch of grapes. That thought haunted me. Fancy Nance Olden starved and blundering into the cheapest and most easily detected species of thieving!

I suppose great generals in their hour of defeat imagine themselves doing the feeblest, foolish things. As I sat there on the bench, gazing before me, I saw the whole thing—Nancy Olden after all her bragging, her skimming her hairbreadth escapes and successes arrested in broad daylight and before witnesses for having stolen a cool, wet bunch of grapes, worth a nickel, for her hot, dry, hungry throat! I saw the policeman that'd do it; he looked like that Sergeant Muller I met 'way 'way back in Latimer's garden. I saw the officer that'd receive me; he had blue eyes like the detective that came for me to the Manhattan. I saw the woman jailer—oh, she was the A. D. all right, who'd receive me without the slightest emotion, show me to a cell and lock the door, as calm, as little triumphant or affected, as though I hadn't once outwitted that cleverest of creatures—and outwitted myself in forestalling her. I saw—

Mag, guess what I saw! No, truly; what I really saw? It made me jump to my feet and grab it with a squeal.

I saw my own purse lying on the gravel almost at my feet, near the little fruit stand that had tempted me.

Blank empty it was, stripped clean, not a penny left in it, not a paper, not a stamp, not even my key. Just the same I was glad to have it. It linked me in a way to the place. The clever little girl that had stolen it had been here in this park, on this very spot. The thought of that cute young Nance Olden distracted my mind a minute from my worry—and, oh, Maggie darling, I was worrying so!

I walked up to the fruit stand with the purse in my hand. The old fellow who kept it looked up with an inviting smile. Lord knows, he needn't have encouraged me to buy if I'd had a penny. "I want to ask you," I said, "if you remember selling a lot of good things to a little girl who had a purse this—this morning?"

I showed it to him, and he turned it over in his crippled old hands.

"It was full then—or fuller, anyway," I suggested.

"You wouldn't want to get her into trouble—that little girl?" he asked, cautiously.

I laughed. "Not I. I—myself—"

I was going to say—well, you can imagine what I was going to say, and that I didn't say it or anything like it. "Well—there she is, Kitty Wilson, over yonder," he said.

I gasped, it was so unexpected. And I turned to look. There on one of the benches sat Kitty Wilson. If I hadn't been blind as a bat and full of trouble—oh, it tickles your wits, does trouble, and blinds your eyes and muffles your ears!—I'd have suspected something at the mere sight of her. For there sat Kitty Wilson enthroned, a haughty, lank little creature about 12, and near her, clustered thick as ants around a lump of sugar, was a crowd of children, black and white, boys and girls. For Kitty—that deplorable Kitty—had money to burn; or what was even more effective at her age, she had goodies to give away. Her lap was full of spoils. She had a sample of every good thing the fruit stand offered. Her cheeks and lips were smeared with candy. Her dress was stained with fruit. The crumbs of cake lingered still on her chin and apron. And Kitty—I love a generous thief—was treating the gang.

It helped itself from her abundant lap; it munched and gobbled and asked for more. It was a riot of a high old time. Even the birds were hopping about as near as they dared, picking up the crumbs, and the squirrels had peanuts to throw to the birds.

And all on Nancy Olden's money! I laughed till I shook. It was good to laugh. Nancy Olden isn't accustomed to a long dose of the doleful, and it doesn't agree with her. I strolled over to where my guests were banqueting.

You see, Mag, that's where I shouldn't rank with the A. D. I'm too inquisitive. I want to know how the other fellow in the case feels and thinks. It isn't enough for me to see him act.

"Kitty," I said—somehow a 12-year-old makes you feel more of a grown-up than a 12-months-old does—"I hope you're having a good time, Kitty Wilson, but—haven't you lost something?"

She was chewing at the end of a long string of black candy—shoes, socks, all right, the stiff look like—she was eating just because she didn't want to stop. Goodness knows, she was full enough. Her jaws stopped, though, suddenly, as she looked from the empty purse in my outstretched hand to me, and took me in.

Oh, I know that pause intimately. It says "Wait a minute, till I get my breath, and I'll know how much you know, and just what lie to tell you."

But she changed her mind when she saw my face. You know, Mag, if there's a thing that's fixed in your memory, it's the face of the body you've done up. The respectables have their rogues' gallery, but we, that is, the light-fingered brigade, have got a fools' gallery to correspond to it.

In which of 'em is my picture? Now, Margaret, that's mean. You know my portrait hangs in both.

I looked down on the little beggar that had painted me for the second salon, and lo, in a flash she was on her feet, the lapful of good things tumbled to the ground, and Kitty was off.

I was bitterly disappointed in that girl, Mag! I was altogether mistaken in my diagnosis of her. Hers is only a physical cleverness, a talented dexterity. She had no resource in time of danger but her legs. And legs will not carry a grifter half so far as a good, quick tongue and a steady head.

She halted at a safe distance and glared back at me. Her hostility excited a crowd of children—her push—against me, and the braver ones jeered at me.

KITTY WAS OFF.

the things Kitty only looked, while the thrifty ones stooped and gathered up the spoil.

"Tell her I wouldn't harm her," I said to one of her lieutenants.

"She says she won't hurt ye, Kit," the child screamed.

"She doesn't," yelled back Kitty, the valiant. "She knows I'd peach on her about the kid."

"Kid! What kid?" I cried, all a-fire.

"The kid ye swiped this mornin'! Yah! I told the cop what brought her back how ye took her just as I—"

"Kitty!" I cried. "You treasure! And with all my might I ran after her."

Silly? Of course it was. I might have known what the short skirts above those thin legs meant. I couldn't come within 50 feet of her. I halted, panting, and she paused, too, dancing tantalizingly half a block away.

What to do? I wished I had another purse to bestow on that sad Kitty, but I had nothing, absolutely nothing, except—all at once I remembered it—that little pin you gave me for Christmas, Mag. I took it off and turned to appeal to the nearest one of the flying bodyguard that had accompanied us.

"You run on to her and tell her that if she'll show me the house where that baby lives I'll give her this pin."

He sped on ahead and parleyed with Kit; and while they talked I held aloft the little pin so that Kit might see the price.

She hesitated so long that I feared she'd slip through my hands, but a sudden rival voice piping out: "I'll show ye the house, missus," was too much for her.

So, with Kit at a safe distance in advance to guard against treachery, and a large and enthusiastic following, I crossed the street, turned a corner, walked down one block and half up another, and halted before a three-story brown stone.

I flew up the stairs, leaving my escort behind, and rang the bell. It wasn't so terribly swagger a place, which relieved me some.

"I want to see the lady whose baby was lost this morning," I said to the maid that opened the door.

"Yes'm. Who'll I tell her?"

Who? That stumped me. Not Nance Olden, late of the Vaudeville, later of the Van Twiller, and latest of the police station. No—not Nance Olden—no—

"Tell her, please," I said, firmly. "That I'm Miss Mursion, of the X-Ray, and that the city editor has sent me here to see her."

That did it. Hooray for the power of the press! She showed me into a long parlor, and I sat down and waited. It was cool and quiet and so softly pretty in that long parlor. The shades were down, the piano was open, the chairs were low and softly cushioned. I leaned back and closed my eyes, exhausted.

And suddenly—Mag!—I felt something that was a cross between a rose-leaf and a showflake touch my hand. "If it wasn't that delectable baby!"

I caught her and lifted her to my lap and hugged the chuckling thing as though that was what I came for. Then, in a moment, I remembered the paper, and lifted her little white slip.

It was gone, Mag. The under-petticoat hadn't a sign of the paper I'd pinned to it.

My head whirled in that minute. I suppose I was faint with the heat, with hunger and fatigue and worry, but I felt myself slipping out of things when I heard the rustling of skirts, and there before me stood the mother of my baby.

The little wretch! She deserted me and flew to that pretty mother of hers in her long, cool white trailing skirts, and sat in her arms and mocked at me.

It was easy enough to begin talking. I told her a tale about being a newspaper woman out on a story; how I'd run across the baby and all the rest of it.

"I must ask your pardon," I finished up, "for disturbing you, but two things sent me here—one to know if the baby got home safe, and the other," I gulped, "to ask about a paper with some notes that I'd pinned to her skirt."

She shook her head.

It was in that very minute that I noticed the baby's ribbons were pink; they had been blue in the morning.

"Of course," I suggested, "you've had her clothes changed, and—"

"Why, yes, of course," said baby's mother. "The first thing I did when I got hold of her was to strip her and put her in a tub; the second, was to discharge that gossiping nurse for letting her out of her sight."

"And the soiled things she had on—the dress with the blue ribbons?"

"I'll find out," she said.

She rang for the maid and gave her an order.

"Was it a valuable paper?" she asked.

"Not—very," I stammered. My tongue was thick with hope and dread. "Just—my notes, you know, but I do need them. I couldn't carry the baby easily, so I pinned them on her skirt, thinking—thinking—"

The maid came in and dumped a little heap of white before me. I fell on my knees.

Oh, yes, I prayed all right, but I searched, too. And there it was.

What I said to that woman I don't know even now. I flew out through the hall and down the steps—and—

And there Kitty Wilson corralled me.

"Say, where's that stick-pin?" she cried.

"Here!—here, you darling!" I said, pressing it into her hand. "And, Kitty, whenever you feel like swiping another purse—just don't do it."

"She says she won't hurt ye, Kit," the child screamed.

"She doesn't," yelled back Kitty, the valiant. "She knows I'd peach on her about the kid."

"Kid! What kid?" I cried, all a-fire.

AN OMNIVOROUS COLONEL

Has Sampled Snakes, Puppies, Live Fish, Horse and Bear.

A man who, according to What to Eat, professes to have eaten more different kinds of food in more different climates than any other man living today, or than any other man that ever lived in any other time, is Colonel Newnam Davis, of London.

"I was dining once with a Japanese family in Tokyo," says the colonel, "when a queer covered dish was brought to the table. The servant removed the cover, disclosing a live fish wriggling and flopping inside the dish."

"They then proceeded to kill it before my eyes and offer me a portion to eat. I did so, too. It was of a peculiar taste, but not unpleasant."

"Next to Japan, China offers the greatest array of marvelous dishes. Eggs 40 or 50 years old, which have been buried for those periods in a clay, are held to be the greatest delicacies in the empire. The longer the egg is interred the finer it is supposed to be. The Chinese egg that is sent to the table is almost black and its flavor reminds one of an overripe egg that has been hard boiled and then served."

"I have eaten many disagreeable things in China—merely for the experience, of course. Among these were sea slugs, a sort of oyster, and fattened puppy. The most disagreeable, however, was a bit of cold pig's liver wrapped around a prune. There was no escape for me from eating this, though I tried to avoid it. My neighbor at the table picked up the liver and the prune with his chopsticks and held them before my lips. I could do nothing but open my mouth and allow the combination to be inserted, because it is considered a signal of honor in the celestial kingdom to have a fellow-guest offer you a dainty morsel in the aforesaid manner."

"The fattened puppy tasted something like a baked suckling pig. The puppy is fed on rice and milk for several months before it is killed to be eaten, and the flesh is tender and quite palatable."

"In Africa—the Transvaal—I have lived on trek cattle, hedgehogs and other things. They tasted peculiar."

"I have often eaten dried serpent in Africa. This did not appeal to me, however. It tasted something like an eel of an inferior, oily sort, where I have tried bear. The meat of the animal from which I had a steak was much like the stringy flesh of an ox of questionable age. I believe the best bear meat is that from a small species which feeds mostly on wild fruit."

"Turkish restaurants were more acceptable than a person would be led to believe. One of their most noted dishes is a joint of lamb boiled to shreds and the small pieces eaten with the fingers."

"Horseflesh I have eaten in South Africa, to return to that country again. It was at Lady Smith this was served, because there was nothing else. The flesh of the horse is unsatisfactory, as it is sweet and tough. Our men at Ladysmith became tired of it."

"There is one wild beast I have not partaken of, and that is lion's flesh. I have never heard of this being eaten, but I should imagine from the nature of the beast the flesh would be dry and stringy, coupled with a rank taste. The lion is lacking in fat. I shot several in India, but their bodies were nothing but hard muscle. It is the same with the buck you kill in India and Africa. The animals are destitute of fat."

"I think Monte Carlo is the most expensive place in the world to dine. One cannot get any kind of a respectable meal there for less than 15 or 20. For every glass of old brandy there you will be asked to pay $2.50. In Paris there is some cognac bottled before the battle of Waterloo which commands $5 a thimbleful."

"So she's another society girl going into the theatrical world. I suppose she hopes to make a name for herself on the stage." "Oh! yes, but she's so particular. She has looked through any number of novels for a good name, but she hasn't found one to suit her yet."—Philadelphia Ledger.

IN THE COURTS

In Bankruptcy.

An order has been made in the H. T. Hessig bankrupt matter, directing the trustee to pay over $1,600 to Mrs. Catherine Hessig, mother of the bankrupt. This is her ten per cent of the $16,000 claim recently allowed.

W. M. Anderson, a merchant at Benton, Marshall county, this morning filed a petition in bankruptcy, giving liabilities to the amount of $2,800 with $750 assets. Several Paducah creditors, holding small claims, are listed in the schedule of debts.

Referee in Bankruptcy E. W. Bagby has set the case of Leander J. Gossett, of Gilbertsville, involuntary bankrupt, for hearing Saturday. Gossett keeps store at Gilbertsville and the case will be taken up at Benton.

Saunders Fowler, William M. Riecke and Charles E. Jennings are the appraisers for E. P. Noble's estate.

H. N. Robertson was this morning appointed administrator of the estate of Mary E. Wood, and John Ellis, Ed Downing and J. H. White appointed appraisers.

Suit for Divorce.

Will Adams today filed a suit against his wife, Mamie Adams, for divorce, alleging abandonment. They married in 1903 and separated in 1905.

Court Notes.

The Globe Bank and Trust company has qualified as administrator of the estate of the late E. P. Noble.

Robert Noble has qualified as administrator of the estate of the first wife of the late E. P. Noble.

BROTHERS

Sue for Divorce and Tell Remarkable Stories of Woes.

Marion, O., July 25.—Lafayette and James Hopkins, brothers brought suit for divorce here today as a result of an agreement made last week.

Lafayette says his wife, Winnie, asked him to grant her the privilege of entertaining gentlemen callers at their home, and when refused she became indignant and deserted him and their child. James claims his wife, Lena, aspired to become a circus performer and insisted on practicing tight rope and trapeze work in their home. Finally she deserted him to join the circus.

Mother Seeking Daughter.

Mrs. Hettie Fraley, of North Fourth street, is engaged in a search for her daughter, Tury Fraley, 16 years old, whom she thinks has run away with a steamboatman. The girl had been keeping company with the man for some time and recently slipped her clothing from home and her mother believes she is in hiding in Paducah. A warrant has been issued for the girl's arrest.

Charles King in Bad.

A warrant has been issued against Charles King charging him with defrauding Mrs. Pat Judge, landlady, who keeps a fashionable boarding-house on Washington street, out of a $13 board bill. King is also out on bond pending trial for appropriating a diamond ring, the property of a daughter of Henry Gockel, the baker.

BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS

Requests Citizens to Bring Complaints and Petitions to Meetings.

Routine matters will occupy the attention of the board of public works this afternoon. Engineer L. A. Washington is in communication with a firm concerning plans for the Island creek bridge at Fourth street, but nothing definite has been received. The board requests that citizens, who have complaints to make or petitions to present to the board, bring them to the meetings Wednesday afternoon, in order that the work of the board may be facilitated and prompt attention accorded all petitions.

SELLING CANCELLED STAMPS.

Five Arrests for Defrauding Government in New York.

New York, July 25.—Charged with selling mortgage tax stamps and stock transfer tax stamps that had already been used, five men were arrested this afternoon on complaint of the state comptroller, Attorney General Mayer and District Attorney Jerome. The authorities charge that the state government has been defrauded of over $200,000.

Immigrants Enslaved.

Pensacola, Fla., July 25.—Peonage in its worst form is charged against the officers of the Jackson Lumber company at Lockhart, Ala., and United States deputies, armed with warrants for their arrest, left here today for that place. If the allegations are true, about 100 immigrants, mostly Germans, are held in the lumber camps of that company virtually as slaves.

Tangled.

A woman was telling her doctor the other day how she had nearly been prostrated by the heat of "one of those amateur days we had. I was frightfully overcome," she said, "and not a thing did I have in the house to revive me but automatic spirits of pneumonia." A winner, that.

Revolutionists Are Active.

St. Petersburg, July 25.—Dispatch from Milan says the revolutionists burned Hempton Castle, situated near Tukum, one of the finest and most ancient in Courland. Armed revolutionists are surrounding many estates in the country. Two columns of troops are advancing respectively from the east and west.

Cossacks Under Arrest.

Odessa, July 25.—Cossacks, who have been making threats against the Jews in revenge for killing a comrade, were disarmed and confined to their barracks to prevent them from carrying out threats. Numerous arrests of revolutionaries have been made.

Made Second Attempt.

Mrs. Fanny Reed, wife of Mr. John W. Reed, of 803 South Fourth street, reported that burglars made the second attempt to gain entrance to her house last night. She frightened them away. The thieves appeared about 1 o'clock in the morning and tried to enter from the rear.

Miss India Lang has returned from De Sota, Mo., where she has been on a visit.

ALLEGED LIQUOR CASES.

Several warrants issued against Will Greek and wife and Joe Wood, proprietors of refreshment stands on the Broadway road at Wallace park, charging them with selling intoxicating drinks to minors, issued in county court, were continued until Tuesday. The men are charged with selling pale ale or a tonic of this kind and it is alleged to be intoxicating. The prosecution, it is said, will first have to prove that the drinks are intoxicating. The proprietors claim that the beverages they sell are not intoxicating.

FLATTERING OFFER.

Mrs. Malone Has Two Fine Positions in View.

Mrs. William Malone, whose stage name is Edna Farrell, who left Paducah not a year ago, and went on the stage again, has two flattering offers for the winter. She has been offered ten weeks with a big road company and has an offer to join one of the biggest Philadelphia stock companies, and also a place as leading woman of the big Broadway productions in New York. Mrs. Malone intends to come home shortly for a short stay.

Academy of Medicine.

Dr. Harry L. Smith lectured on the anatomy of the intestines of the stomach at the Academy of Medicine last night at the Carnegie library, and Dr. L. E. Young lectured on the physiological aspects of the same subject. The subject for the next meeting will be "Enteritis and Colitis," and will be handled by Drs. Coleman and Sights.

County Teachers.

The following are successful applicants for county teachers' certificates, examined several weeks ago: Lyda Heath, Marshall county; Nellie Webb, city and Pattie Chambers, county. Friday and Saturday, July 27 and 28, colored teachers' examinations will be held.

Work on Poor-House.

All excavating for cellar and foundations at the new county poor-house site on the Broadway road has been finished and this afternoon the work of laying the concrete for the foundation began. Work on the new poor-house is being pushed by the committee.

Fugitive Arrested.

HARRY Daniels, colored, who escaped from the chain gang at Kottawa, was arrested here yesterday afternoon by Marshal William McCullom, of Kottawa, and taken back. "Hillie" was working on the section of the Paducah Traction company when arrested.

Views of Court House.

Riley and Cook, photographers, are this afternoon taking views of the county court house yard. The yard is being photographed in sections, and the fountain will be made into one big picture.

Colonel Assassinated.

IN THE LOBBY

"If I can get one good man out of five, I consider myself doing well," said J. A. Gassaway, of the American Cigar company. Mr. Gassaway has several southern states over which he is sales manager, and has a corps of traveling men under him. "Energy and good, common sense are essential to make a salesman successful. The traveling man who is too particular about getting a full night's rest hardly will make any conspicuous success. Economy of time is the A. B. C. of salesmanship on the road. Often by taking a night train a full day may be saved, and to the man who does not shirk his work and who will economize time, the richest plums on the tree of traveling success will fall. I believe a good deal in the idea of 'feeling like' seeing a possible customer. It has always been my plan when I did not feel in the mood to meet people, to sit still, for as long as two hours at a time, until the feeling that I could sell that person came over me, then I'd tackle him. To approach a man, in an indifferent mood, rarely will result in a sale. It's a long way from here to Corinth, Miss., but I will be there tomorrow night and work three towns in between. I'll leave on the 7:40 o'clock train in the morning, but as I only see the wholesale trade, and as night traveling doesn't cut any figure with me, it will be possible to cover that much territory in so short a time."

Some people say that dogs have no ability of expression but this theory was exploded yesterday when a yellow dog went up against a broken trolley wire. "If ever a dog was surprised and showed it in his face, this 'yaller' dog was," Magistrate Charles Emery declared. "I saw the trolley wire go down on Madison street near Ninth street and the end curled up several inches above the ground. The dog was jogging along at a moderate rate until it struck the wire. The canine was paralyzed for brief time and fire flashed a distance of 30 feet along the wire. The dog recovered, however, and with one startled look behind began to run. He yelped some, too, and the last I saw of him he was still going."

PROF. EVERETT RESIGNS.

Will Accept Better Paying Position in Louisiana.

Prof. W. E. Everett, principal of the grammar grades of the Washington school, has handed in his resignation. Prof. Everett has accepted a position in Louisiana at a handsome increase of salary. This is the second teacher who has resigned this year to go to Louisiana. The r liey in that state seeming to be to go. good teachers at whatever cost.

Spark From Engine Burns Town.
Chillicothe, Mo., July 25.—A spark from a passing Wabash engine last night set fire to a store in Norville, a small station east of here, and the entire town, with the exception of one building, was burned.

Mrs. A. W. Wright left this afternoon for Beechwood, Ind., to spend a month visiting relatives.
